

You can contribute to the design of the new homes

When the development partner is chosen to work with the Council for the regeneration of the Winstanley and York Estate, residents will be able to take part in the development of the design.

During the autumn there will be a series of workshops where you can learn about all the design standards that will help shape the new homes and this will help you have your say. Issues to be covered include:

- What are the standards the Council is setting for the new homes?
- When they say all flats must be adaptable to meet a families needs - what does that mean?
- How big will the flats be?
- What size will the rooms be?
- Will there be room for my furniture?
- What choice will there be for my kitchen?
- Can I have a separate kitchen or an open plan flat?
- Will I have a balcony?
- What kind of heating will I have?
- If I use a wheelchair or need mobility support will there be bigger adaptable flats?
- Will there be cycle stores?

To find out the answers to these questions and to bring your own questions...

Leave your name and details with a Council officer today before you leave.

The Council will come back with details of the workshops in the Autumn.
